Following the success of the Singapore Economic Review Conferences in 2005, 2007, 2009 and 2011 (close to 350 economists from 40 countries attended), we are pleased to organize the fifth conference from August 6-8, 2013 in Singapore. Past speakers included Nobel Laureates like Joseph Stiglitz and Edward Prescott, and many prominent editors and co-editors of major economics journals. The Singapore Economic Review (SER) has been a leading journal in economics in Asia since it was founded in 1956. The SER is a general economics journal devoted to publishing papers of high academic standard. It covers a wide range of economic issues, especially those impinging on Southeast Asia and the broader Asia-Pacific region. SER is also indexed in major economics indices such as the Social Sciences Citation Index (SSCI); Google Scholar; EconLit; and RePec.

The SER invites theoretical and empirical papers on ALL aspects of economics:

- Asian Economies
- Banking and Financial Markets
- Behavioral and Experimental Economics
- China, India and other Emerging Economies
- Econometric Models and Applications
- Economic History and Economic Thought
- Economics of Information
- Economics of Policy and Governance
- Economics of Social Issues
- Economics of Technology
- Emerging Economies and Transition
- Energy, Environment and Resources
- International Economics and International Finance
- Macroeconomics
- Microeconomics
- Population, Demography and Fertility
- Public Economics and Public Policy
- Singapore and other ASEAN Economies
- Transport Economics
- Sustainability
